- On March 31st, former President Jimmy Carter spoke about mental health at the Phillips Center for the Performing Arts; he appeared in place of his wife, Rosalyn Carter, who was indisposed.
- President Fuchs and his wife Linda Fuchs have enjoyed a multi-city listening tour in Florida’s major cities and are about to embark on a tour of additional Florida cities and selected cities nationwide where there are high concentrations of Gators. They visited Orlando, Jacksonville and Miami, meeting with alumni, friends, media and community leaders to ideas and hear ideas and thoughts about how to shape UF’s next era. President Fuchs also met with state lawmakers in Tallahassee.
- There was a groundbreaking in January for the UF Health Heart and Vascular Hospital in and the UF Health Neuromedicine Hospital in two towers now under construction near the UF Health Cancer Hospital. These projects represent a $415 million investment and a major expansion of UF Health services for the university community, the local area and beyond; the new hospital facilities are scheduled to open in 2018. Healthcare professionals in these hospitals will have access to the latest medical technologies. They will work in an environment designed to support the most compassionate and effective care for patients and families.
- As part of an elaborate April Fools’ Day joke on April 1st, Coach Jim McElwain and President Fuchs reported that they had swapped jobs. President Fuchs and Coach McElwain filmed a video on the job swap and released it publicly on social media. The video had over a half-million tweets and reached over a half-million people on Facebook and were covered by ESPN.
- Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs Joe Glover and Vice President for Research David Norton will invest $8 million to replace the HiPerGator with an even more powerful and fast super-computer. The existing HiPerGator, which was state of the art at its inception and has helped 400 faculty inventors, 1500 post-doctoral affiliates and 13 colleges with the prompt processing of high volume data, is at its capacity.
- University of Florida law professor, Dr. Kathryn Russell-Brown, was nominated this year for an NAACP Image Award for Outstanding Literacy Work for “Little Melba and Her Big Trombone” the debut biography children’s picture book about the late Melba Liston, a jazz musician and pioneer trombonist and arranger.
- We’re all aware of rising concerns over concussions in football. UF is one of 11 universities in a $30 million NCAA/DOD-initiative to advance knowledge on this issue through clinical and research efforts. The University Athletic Association has produced an excellent multimedia presentation about these efforts – one that is both accessible and informative. President Fuchs stated that a link to the report would be provided to the Trustees (https://floridagators.exposure.co/heady-ambitions).
- The Dance Marathon at the University of Florida, which was one of the most successful student-run philanthropy projects in the South-East, raised over two million dollars for pediatric patients at UF Health Shands Children’s Hospital. President Fuchs attended the event with Senior Vice President for Health Affairs and President of UF Health David Guzick and Vice President for Student Affairs David Kratzer.

- On December 3 and 4, 2015, the Board will meet and an inauguration ceremony for President Fuchs will be held on the afternoon of December 4th, with presidents of many other universities invited to attend. During the days preceding the inauguration, the University’s and its College’s histories and current and future strengths and contributions will be celebrated.

- Recapping the President’s hour for discussion with the Trustees, the hour focused on undergraduate education and included PowerPoint presentations and five questions that need to be considered in advancing undergraduate education at UF. The PowerPoint slides are available on the Trustees’ Website. The questions were as follows and the discussion began to explore why the questions and answers are important to the advancement of UF:
  - How many undergraduate students should we have at UF and what factors influence limits?
  - What should be the geographic diversity of our students be and why?
  - How about the racial and ethnic diversity of our students?
  - How much need-based aid should we provide and how should we fund it?
  - How much merit-based aid should we provide and how should we fund it?
