3.0 President’s Report
President Fuchs reported the following developments:

- He noted that HiPerGator 2, a powerful tool supporting the University’s research endeavor, is the second most powerful supercomputer among public universities.
recently ranked as the third most powerful supercomputer among all universities and the 114th most-powerful supercomputer in the world – including all universities, governments and Google.

- He said that UF announced a wonderful $50 million gift, naming the Herbert Wertheim College of Engineering, the largest cash gift in UF’s history.

- President Fuchs shared that this fiscal year to date, UF reached an all-time record of $141 million in private gift support and expects to reach $200 million before the New Year. This well-exceeds the halfway point in UF’s goal of $315 million for the fiscal year.

- He also reflected that UF celebrated the 50th anniversary of the invention of Gatorade this year. The University has received $280 million in royalties from Gatorade. Last year, UF received $17.2 million in royalties.

- President Fuchs reported on these notable rankings earned by UF:
  - The Association of University Technology Managers ranked UF in the top ten among both public and private universities in patents, startups and licenses.
  - USA Today ranked UF among the top five of the nation’s colleges for veterans.
  - StartClass, an education research website, ranked UF seventh among the Top 20 Public Colleges in the Country.
  - The Business Journals ranked UF seventh among the best public colleges.
  - The New York Times, ranked UF sixth in doing the most for educating and graduating low-income students and second among public universities in the percentage of freshmen federal Pell grant recipients who are likely to graduate. This indicates that UF provides exceptional access to low-income students, and not only admits these students but successfully educates and graduates this cohort.

- President Fuchs noted the ribbon-cutting ceremonies for two new residence halls, Infinity Hall, a private residence with special access and services for UF students, and Cypress Hall, which is specially equipped for students with multiple disabilities, making 26 residences.

- He announced the ground-breaking for the second phase of UF Health North in Jacksonville, a 92-bed in-patient hospital.

- President Fuchs lauded the new Reitz Union, which is within one month of re-opening following a 50,000-square-foot renovation of the existing structure and a 100,000-square-foot addition. This project began in fall 2013 and represents an historic expansion of a facility that serves many co-curricular needs of UF students.

- He noted that the Field and Fork Food Pantry was opened in September to ensure that students struggling to pay for food will never experience hunger.

- President Fuchs reported that the results from AAU Campus Climate Survey on Sexual Assault conducted at UF and other AAU universities reports that one in five female UF undergraduate students indicated they have experienced some type of sexual assault, which mirrors the results at other universities.

- President Fuchs also reported that the Goal Setting Task Force completed its work leading to seven overarching University goals, along with objectives and metrics. The Trustees have provided input to and favorably reviewed the goals at two retreats. A brochure on these UF-wide strategic goals has been published and are available at each Trustee’s seat. The next stage is for UF’s 16 colleges to develop their plans for reaching these goals.

- President Fuchs relayed that IFAS researchers have developed a transgenic tree that is highly resistant to the greening bacteria, which is a step toward ending citrus greening.
- He reported that IFAS also received a $49 million award to build livestock capacity in six countries in Africa and Asia from USAID. Forty land-grant universities competed for this award.
- President Fuchs announced that the Provost’s symposium, “UF’s Strategic Goals: A Path to Implementation,” will be held on January 28th and 29th. The guest speaker is Dr. Robert Birgeneau, the Chancellor Emeritus of U.C. Berkeley. Dr. Birgeneau is the co-chair, with University of Michigan President Emerita Mary Sue Coleman, of The Lincoln Project: Excellence and Access in Higher Education. Dr. Coleman was recently named President of the AAU. The Lincoln Project published two documents which were provided to the Trustees and are the first of five publications of the project with key facts and information about the role, resources and status of public research universities.

8.0 Comments of the Chair of the Board

Chair Scott noted that this has been a milestone year for University of Florida, the first year of service by President, Kent Fuchs, who will be inaugurated that day. The University is embracing UF-wide goals, which with the efforts of our faculty, students, and the administrators who support them will advance the University of Florida to a top 10 national public research university stature and allow UF to contribute even more to Florida, the nation and the world.

The Board has elected David Thomas as Chair and James Heavener as Vice Chair to serve when Chair Scott’s term as Chair and David Thomas’ term as Vice Chair end on July 1, 2016. This was a wise decision, which positions Board leadership for a smooth transition at a particularly important time for the University.

In the coming year, UF will be accelerating planning and activities for what will be a truly transformational capital campaign to support the University’s academic, research and service mission. The University will also begin implementation of the UF-wide goals and strategies that have been developed in President Fuchs’ first year and will be pursued for the advancement of UF.

Chair Scott stated that the University is extraordinarily fortunate that David Thomas and Bill Heavener are willing to assume the heavy responsibility of serving as Chair and Vice Chair of this Board and to make the commitment of time and resources that this service entails. This is a collegial, dedicated and wise Board and all Trustees are committed fiduciaries who put the University’s best interests first. Chair Scott thanked all Trustees for their service and thanked David Thomas and Bill Heavener for their special service as Chair- and Vice Chair- elect.

I am grateful and proud that the University’s Board recruited Kent Fuchs as UF’s President and look forward to the day’s festivities and ceremony.

Finally, Chair Scott reflected that this is a busy time of year for our students, faculty, staff and friends. Classes are ending, finals are soon to follow, and the holidays will be here before we know it. He asked the entire UF community to be vigilant at this time if you see someone in need, and make sure those in our community know that there are resources at UF to assist them. The U Matter We Care web site is a great source for assistance for students—and Human Resource Services’ website is a source for employees. He wished the Trustees, the Administration and all in the UF community a safe and wonderful holiday and President Fuchs’ inauguration. To end, he wished the Gators well at the SEC championship on Saturday.

With no further discussion desired, the motion was passed unanimously and the University of Florida Board of Trustees meeting was adjourned at 11:05 a.m. EST.
